The hydrant water is introduced into these cottages as wall as into the main building, and all the waste water carried off by drains under ground.

carried off by drains under ground.

THE WATER WORES

Consist of a circular stone building, standing on the brow of a hill, surmounted by a large cedar reservoir containing five hundred barrels, brought from a never-failing spring of pure cold water in the side of the hill, by "a hydraulic ram," a self-acting machine of cast iron, that is kept constantly going, night and day, by the descent of the water from the spring. The surplus water is carried from the reservoir to a fountain in the water-works yard, surrounded by weeping willows. In the first story of the waterworks is a circular room, containing the douche bath, which is a stream falling from a height of about thirty feet, and can be varied in size from half an inch to an inch and a half in diameter. Adjoining the douche room is a dressing room, with marble tables, &c.; the rising douche (for the cure of piles, &c.) is one of the most complete contrivances of the kind, being entirely under the control of the patient using the same.

There are many other appliances, which can be better understood by a personal examination.

PIOTORIAL HISTORY OF CHINA AND INDIA; with a descriptive account of those countries and their inhabitants, from the earliest period of authentic history to the present time. In which the editor has treated not only of the historical events, but also of the manners, customs, religion, literature, and domestic habits of the people of those immense empires.

The embelishments are about two hundred, and of the first order, illustrating whatever is peculiar to the inhabitants, regarding their dress, domestic occupations, their mode of agriculture, commercial pursuits, arts, &c. They are accurate, and each one has been made expressly for the work.

are accurate, and each one has been made expressly to the work.

The volume forms a large octavo, containing between five and six hundred pages, printed in the best style, and on good substantial white paper. It is furnished to agents, handsomaly bound in music, gilt, or leather, as the pur-chaser may prefer, at a very liberal discount, when quan-tities of not less than twenty copies are ordered at one comprising the most striking and remarkable events of the Revolution, the French war, the Tripolitan war, the Indian war, the second war with Great Britain, and the Mexican war; with three hundred engravings! Retail price, $2 50 per volume. Orders respectfully solicited. SEARS' PICTORIAL FAMILY PUBLICATIONS are decidedly the beat books that seems can receibly am.

SEARS PICTORIAL FAMILY PUBLICATIONS are decidedly the best books that agents can possibly employ their time in supplying to the people of the United States. They are valuable for reference, and should be possessed by every family in this great republic. There is not a city or town in these United States, not even those of small importance, but contains many citizens to whom these works are indispensable. They are adapted to the literary wants of the Christian, the patriot, the statesman, and the domestic circle, got up in a superior style of art and workmanship; and are not only such books as will sell, but are such as an agent of good principle will feel free to recommend, and willing to see the purchaser again after they have been bought.

OUR PLAN.—The plan the publisher has so successfully carried out for several years, is the obtaining responsible men as agents, who are well known in their own counties, towns, and villages, and have time and disposition to circulate good and instructive books among their neighbors and friends. Any person wishing to embark in the enterprise will risk little in sending $25 or $50, for which he will receive an assortment as he may direct, at the wholesale cash prices.

The Baltimore and Philadelphia Steamboat Company (ERICSSON LINE)

Have resumed their operations for the year with increased means of accommodating the trade between Philadelphia and Baltimore, in the most regular and expeditious manner, and at their former materially reduced prices, being, on dry goods, hardware, &c., only 10 cents per 100 pounds, and but half the price charged by other lines.

Persons wishing to avail themselves of the facilities and moderate prices of the Line, are advised to give explicit and positive directions for sending their goods to the Ericsson Line, and they should be particular to possess themselves of the receipts which are invariably given for their goods. In those are stated the price charged for transportation; and it will prove a protection against the double rates exacted by other lines, who have no published rates.

Goods destined for the West, South, or other places beyond Baltimore, forwarded promptly on the day of their arrival, with every care and attention, free of all charge whatever for this service, in the shape of commissions or otherwise.

IRISH EMIGRANT SOCIETY.

Office, No. 1 Reade Street, New York. Office, No. I Reade Street, New 1078.

In consequence of the great number of complaints which have for a long time been made by Emigrants, of frauds committed upon them in the sending of money to their friends in Ireland, and to aid and protect the Emigrant, the Irish Emigrant Society established a fund, deposited in the Bank of Ireland, upon which they draw drafts, payable at sight, at any of the branches of the Bank.

Persons residing out of the city, by enclosing in a letter the sum they wish forwarded, with the plainly written direction to whom and where it is to be paid, will have the same remitted.

There is a great advantage in purchasing the Society's Trafts—that the Bank has a branch in each of the principal towns in Ireland, and thus the losses by discount, and al towns in Freiand, and therwise, are avoided. The Society keeps an office at No. 22 Spruce street, to which Emigrants can apply to obtain situations for which which Emigranis can apply to obtain situations for which they are fitted.

Orders from employers in the country, stating the ser-vices required, the wages, and the cheapest modes of con-veyance, and giving a respectable reference, will meet with prompt attention.

The Society will be thankful for all circumstantial and prompt attention.

The Society will be thankful for all circumstantial and early information of any fraud, imposition, or outrage committed on Emigrants, and will endeavor speedily to apply a remedy.

SIR H. L. BULWER AND HIS LATE SPEECH. We yesterday published in our paper the letter of Mr. Bulwer, explanatory of that portion of his speech at the St. George Society's dinner which gave offence to a portion of the citizens and residents of New York. We now complete the history of the affair by copying the memorial adopted by the meeting before which that letter was read. It was prepared by Michael Doheny, esq., and unanimously adopted on motion of Mr. Mike Walsh, seconded by Mr. P. Lynch:

To his Excellency Millard Fillmore, President of the United States:

The memorial of the undersigned, citizens and inhabitants of the city of New York and its neighborhood, most respectfully showeth-That memorialists are fully sensible no ordinary circumstances would justify them in appealing to the Chief Executive in reference to a subject coming within the immediate sphere of his administrative functions; and they beg to assure your excellency that if they thought the facts to which they respectfully and earnestly invite your attention would otherwise come officially under your cognizance, they would not presume to make them the subject of complaint, being convinced that your excellency would protect every class and section of the people of these States, without distinction, from insult and outrage. That, presuming the circumstances which they respectfully lay before you would otherwise escape your excellency's notice, and feeling them to be of an unprecedented character in this or any other civilized country, and of the greatest importance, in whatever light they are considered, your memorialists most earnestly request your excellency's consideration of and decision upon them. They are as follows: On the 24th day of the present month Sir Henry Lytton Bulwer, ambassador to your excellency's government from the court of her Majesty the Queen of Great Britain and Ireand, attended at the celebration of the St. George's festival, at the Astor House, in the city of New York, and there delivered the following sentiments, which, after two days of sober reflection, appeared under his name in the Express newspaper, which assumes to represent him. Your memorialists copy them from that paper, believing they were published with his sanction and correction; and, besides, they appeared in the same words in other papers, and without any denial or explanation on his

Extract from Sir Lytton Bulwer's speech. "Do any of you, gentlemen, happen to have any good-natured friends? [Laughter.] If so, you can understand how my good-natured friends at Washington all crowded around me, immediately on my return from Richmond, to relate how a most infamous publication had appeared in some journal-I believe called the Boston Celt-purporting to be an intercepted despatch from me to the English Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs. Now, people usually advertise when they have lost any property; but I wish to advertise that I have lost no property at all, [laughter;] and although it is natural to conecture, from the semi-barbarous, semi-clad, and Celtic origin of my Boston friend, [laughter,] that he had been guilty of the crime of which he poasted-namely, theft-he had in reality been guilty of an offence which more appropriately pelongs to a further advanced stage of pantaloons and refinement-[laughter]-I mean forgery another example, by the way, of the general maxim, that all savages, whether Celtic or otherwise, when they take to inhabiting cities-even such moral cities as Boston-adopt the vices, without acquiring the virtues or the graces of civilized life. [Cheers and laughter.] And here I should leave the matter, but I am rather inclined to suspect (every thing that is at all Yankee has such odd notions) — [laughter]—that the unkind barbarian of Massachusetts, instead of intending a more serious offence, has merely been perpetrating a bad joke, in the shape of a political squib, which is meant to favor the presidential claims of an excellent friend of mine, by having it appear that he is a particular enemy of England. Now, I should be sorry to do this friend any disservice; but I do not believe that I shall be doing him any disservice by stating that I don't look upon him as an enemy to England at all, and that I feel sure that he is only just as much so as any of the other great American statesmen or generals whom I know, love, and honor, and of whom I always speak and write with due respect." No argument is needed to establish the fact that this language was unmistakeably calculated and manifestly intended to wound and insult every inhabitant of this country who is of Irish birth or blood; and your memorialists republic have not been excelled in fidelity, loyalty, or attachment to the laws, institutions, flag, and honor of their adopted country. They now constitute more than one-fourth of the entire population of this great city, and many of them fill, without discredit, the highest positions in the learned professions, in every department, civil and military, and every pursuit, mercantile, literary, artistic, commercial, and The insult was offered in the midst of them, to them all, without distinction, and but bread and water, unless you ask your uncle's was unprovoked by any. It involves insinua-tions utterly untrue. Moreover, a main object memorialists' estimation, is patent through its line. whole tenor, was to create unnatural and internecine animosity between different classes and nationalities who are here united and blended together in one great brotherhood.

And your memorialists shall ever pray.

The National Intelligencer of this morning inroduces this whole subject as follows:

"FALSE FIRE IN NEW YORK .- We transfer to our columns the clearest account that we have seen of the most extraordinary and hardly conervable excitement and conduct of a part of the naturalized population of New York, who ap-pear to have taken offence, without any ra-tional cause, at a portion of the late speech of the British Minister at the St. George's festi-

"Mr. Doheny and his associates seem to think that the Celtic race inhabited Ireland alone. But they ought to know that the Celts spread over parts of all western Europe, and w free from the reproach of breeches as our North canon. American Indians. Indeed, the Celts of Scotland have only quite recently, we believe, adopted the use of that integument for the nether man, even if they have all yet done so-being in this respect behind their Irish brethren But, to take offence at the charge that the Celts, whether in Ireland, Scotland, France, or Spain, were anciently free from the incumbrance of breeches, is about as reasonable as it would be to maintain that they all wore beaver hats."

During the reading of Sir Henry Bulwer's etter, it is stated, three hearty groans were given for him, and a voice from the crowd sang out, "D-n the bloody Englishman; he wants to get off, through his wife being an Irishman.'

THE STOLEN FRUIT. - A STORY OF NA-POLEON'S CHILDHOOD. [Concluded.]

"I never tell falsehoods!" said the boy, roudly.

"What were you doing?"

"I was thirsty: I came to get some water."
"No harm in that—and then, my boy?"
"That was all, uncle." "Have you drunk the water?"

"No, uncle; not yet."
The archdeacon shook his head. "You came drink, and you did not drink; that does not be, you shall be forgiven; but if you tell a lie, and persist in it, I warn you that I shall punish you severely."

The entrance of M. Bonaparte, M. Fesch, and Joseph, Napoleon's eldest brother, interrupted conversation; and for some minutes the elder gentlemen spoke to each other on political subjects; when a sudden exclamation from Severia, as she opened the cupboard, attracted the attention of all.

"Santa Madona! who has taken the fruit?" stole the fruit

"That's a falsehood!" exlaimed Severia, who, being an old domestic, took great liberties.

Joseph and Lucien took a kind leave of their brother, but Eliza seemed unwilling and afraid to go near or look at him. The three days passed on, heavily enough for poor Napoleon, who was in disgrace, and living on bread, water, and cheese which was not broccio. At length the party returned, and little Panoria, who was watching for her friend Eliza, came with them into the house.

"Good morning, uncle," said Madame Bona-parte to the archdeacon, "how are you? And where are Napoleon and Pauline?"

"Here I am, mamma," said the latter, throwing her arms around her mother's neck.

"And Napoleon ?" " Here he is," said the canon.

"Has he confessed?" asked his father. "No," replied the uncle. "I never before ritnessed such obstinacy."
"What has he done?" asked his mother.

The canon, in reply, related the story of the fruit; but before he could finish it, Panoria "Of course, poor fellow, he would not confess what he never did!" "And who did take the fruit?" asked the "I and Eliza," replied the little girl without hesitation. There was a universal exclamation. "My poor child." said the archdeacon, emracing Napoleon tenderly, "why did you not undeceive us?"

The boy's lips trembled, and a tear dimmed his eye, and he replied-"I TOLD YOU THE TRUTH, AND ALL I KNEW OF

A WONDERFUL Cow .- There is a cow which has stood, for many years, in the same spot in the suburbs of our city, with a wooden teat and iron tail. This cow has never been known to move from her place or change her position. She gives an astonishing quantity of milk, and draws her nourishment from the ground. has never had a calf, neither has she failed to give her usual quantity of milk. She is not milked as other cows are by pulling the teat, but by pulling the tail. For further description ask some of our milkmen .- Newark Mei There is another singular species of cows, in most towns and cities, different materially from the one described by our Newark friend. They have glass "teats" and "tales" of woe. They also give an astonishing quantity of "milk, and draw their nourishment from those who "milk them." They have many calves which hang well together. Napoleon, take care. If they never wean, and some of them are always you frankly confess your fault, whatever it may be, you shall be forgiven; but if you tell a lie, are reduced, and most in need of "milk," the dam refuses her supply, and turns upon them the "hollow-horn," to which the oldest calves have great aversion. They are not milked in the usual way, but the "calf" dodges behind a rack or screen, and "sucks" the glass "teat," first standing, then sitting, and finally lying. Naturalists have observed that the younge calves, after a good "suck," are playful and active, but as they grow older they become at feeted with that disease among "cattle" called "This is the mystery discovered!" said the the trembles. It has also been remarked that canon, turning toward Napoleon. "So you the oftener those cows are sucked, the more thirsty and impoverished becomes the "call." After sucking for years they are often too weak to stand, and generally terminate their "career" by "going to grass."-Exchange.

RAT STATISTICS .- Our readers have perhaps little idea of the vast quantities of rats brought into Ipswich during the past year, for the pur-pose of "sport." In twenty-one weeks, a celeorated rat-catcher, named Joseph Pooley, of Witnesham, brought to one public house in the town no less than 11,464 rats, which he sold at 2s. 6d. per dozen. This man took away from the town in this short period the sum of £254 0s. 11d. He declares that another year of the sort would have made his fortune, and expresses his conviction that, when the authorities stopped "rat-pitting," they struck a severe blow at the prosperity of Ipswich. Pooley is certainly clever at his gentle craft; besides being an excellent catcher, he is celebrated as being a trainer of rats, that is to say, he will make them go through sundry manœuvres, such as picking up cards, self. If he has not taken them"—

A WORD TO LITTLE GIRLS .- Who is lovely? It is the little girl who drops sweet words, kind remarks, and pleasant smiles, as she passes along; who has a kind word of sympathy for every little girl or boy she meets in trouble, and a kind hand to help her companions out of difficulty; who never scolds, never contends, never teazes her mother, nor seeks in any way to diminish but always to increase her happiness. Would it not please you to pick up a string of pearls, drops of gold, diamonds, or precious stones, as you pass along the street? But these are the precious stones which can never be lost. Take the hand of the friendless. Smile on the sad and dejected. Sympathize with those in trouble. Strive everywhere to diffuse around you sunshine and joy. If you do this, you will be sure to be beloved.
